Research for Undergrads

PEER Internship Program for Undergraduates. The Pacific Earthquake Engineering Research Center (PEER) is pleased to offer unique opportunities this summer for outstanding undergraduate students to participate in state-of-the-art research focused on the theme of Engineering Earthquake Resilient Communities. Recent earthquakes in the US and around the world have repeatedly shown that earthquake resilience is essential to building and sustaining urban communities. Earthquake resilience will play an increasingly important role in the professions associated with earthquake hazard mitigation. Deadline to apply is February 25.

The National Science Foundation funds students to participate in summer research projects at Universities throughout the US in programs called Research Experiences for Undergraduates (REU), it's a great opportunity to experience other campuses, and if you are thinking about graduate school, can be invaluable. You can search through hundreds of REU sites at http://www.nsf.gov/crssprgm/reu/reu\_search.cfm. Note: deadlines are generally mid- Feb so don't wait!

Wind Energy Science, Engineering, and Policy \(WESEP\) Research Experiences for Undergraduates. Iowa State University offers an intensive 10-week on-campus research program in WESEP for undergraduate students. Students will work collaboratively in interdisciplinary teams with faculty and graduate students to receive training and get hands-on research experience in areas that address critical, long-term national needs in wind energy-related areas. Apply by March 8.
